

Beyond the Bruises: Identifying Patterns of Coercion and Control

By

Brandon Pasley,

Description of Presentation

Participants will discuss depictions of coercive control through video vignettes against the backdrop of the Power and Control Wheel.

Objectives

1) Participants will become acquainted with the Power and Control Wheel Tactics of Abuse and explore examples of these tactics utilizing the Domestic Abuse Intervention Programs (Duluth Model) video vignettes to gain a broader perspective of domestic violence.

Bio

Brandon Pasley has worked in victim services for 17 years. He has served as a Victim Services Liaison, a court advocate, and a systems advocate. Brandon managed the Oklahoma Address Confidentiality Program and worked as a member of the Certification Team of the Oklahoma Attorney General's Office from 2007-2015. He currently serves the YWCA Oklahoma City as Senior Director of Specialized Training. In this capacity he trains on domestic violence in both the public and private sectors and at the state and local level.

